PORTERS' FIVE FORCES MODEL

	Five Forces	Explanation
	Power of suppliers	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A business must assess the power of suppliers to influence prices. • The more powerful the suppliers, the less control the business has over them. • The smaller the number of suppliers, the more powerful they may be as the choice of suppliers may be limited. • The business should identify the kind of power its suppliers have in terms of the quality of products/services/reliability/ability to make prompt deliveries.
	Power of buyers	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Buyers buying in bulk can bargain for prices in their favour. • If a business is dealing with a few powerful buyers, they are often able to dictate their terms to the business. • If buyers can do without the business's products, then they have more power to determine the prices and terms of sale • The business must assess how easy it is for buyers/customers to drive prices down. • This will depend on the number of buyers/the importance of each buyer to the business and the cost of switching to other products.
	Power of competitors/ Competitive rivalry	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Competitive rivalry refers to the number of competitors and their ability to influence/control the market. • If competitors have a unique product/service, then they will have greater power. • A business with many competitors in the same market has very little power in their market. • Businesses must draw up a competitor's profile so that they can determine their own strength as well as that of competitors.
	Threat of substitution/substitutes	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Substitute products or services are different products/services that satisfy the same needs of consumers and can be used to replace one another. • If the business's product can be easily substituted, it weakens the power of the business in the market. • Substitute products may cause the business to completely lose its market share. • Unique products will not be threatened by substitute products.

Date Started

Date Ended

	Threat/Barriers of new entrants to the market	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • New entrants are other businesses that are selling the same/similar products in the existing market for the first time. • The power will depend on how easy it is for new businesses to enter the market. • New competitors can quickly/easily enter the market, if it takes little time/ money to enter the market. • If there are a few suppliers of a product/service but many buyers, it may be easy to enter the market. • If the business is highly profitable, it will attract potential competitors that want to benefit from high profits. • If the barriers to enter the market are low, then it is easy for new businesses to enter the market/industry.

NOTE: The main aim of Porter's Five Forces model is to analyse the business position in the market. This is more of a research study done by businesses. Do not focus on recommendations as this is not required at this stage

Trade only with countries that have favourable trade agreements with the government.
Economic	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Inflation/Interest rates may negatively impact on business. Loans may be expensive due to high interest rates. Fluctuations in foreign currency may restrict import. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Consider decreasing profit margins rather than increasing product prices. Borrow money from financial institutions when interest rates are favourable. Consider exchange rates when trading with other countries
Social	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Customers may not be able to afford products due to low income levels. Businesses may not be conversant with the local language of their customers. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Sell substitute/generic products at lower prices. Technological	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> May not keep up with/be aware of the latest technology. Employees may not be skilled to operate/maintain new technology/ equipment. Train existing/appoint new employees to maintain/use new equipment. Compare prices/Select suitable suppliers for new equipment at reasonable prices. You need to quote challenges from the above scenario, classify EACH challenge according to business environment and state the extent of control DM has over EACH business environment
